MEET UNEMPLOYMENT SANELY--HARDING

CONSIDER FACTS NOT THEORIES SAYS PRESIDENT

OPENS HOOVER'S UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE WITH EXPRESSION OF BELIEF THAT RESULTS WILL BE LARGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26—President Harding today opened the national unemployment conference called by Secretary Hoover with a declaration that the United States must face the inevitable aftermath of the war, and that merely palliative or temporarily stimulating measures would be of no real avail.

The President expressed the belief that the delegates in their deliberations would perform "a service to the world," and that the effects of the meeting would be felt far beyond the borders of this country. He described the present depression as "A war heritance throughout the world," and said that he would have no enthusiasm for any measures which would merely involve drawing upon the public treasury for relief.

He declared that "the open, sure, and onward way of ridding the nation of the aftermath of depression involved in liquidation and reorganization, lay "in taking account of things done and in sober contemplation of things to be done." "We cannot find the solution by hugging delusions, but must face the facts as they are," was the substance of the whole message.

In conclusion the president declared that the delegates were not called to solve long controverted economic and social problems, but would have a definite program of discussion, prepared by Mr. Hoover.

Secretary Hoover, himself, spoke a few words. He said that it was his hope that the conference might succeed in working out a permanent policy for combatting unemployment.

FIFTY YEARS SERVICE IOWA PASTOR'S RECORD

Dedham, Ia.—Fifty years in one conference, during which time he preached more than 7,500 sermons and saw 2,600 persons converted and taken into his church, is the record of Rev. William Christie Smith, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

Rev. Smith, who is seventy-six, recently returned from the Des Moines conference having made the 150-mile trip with his wife by automobile. At the conference he preached his semi-centennial sermon.

Next to driving his automobile, Rev. Smith takes most delight in walking a tight rope, a survival of the days when he longed to become a circus acrobat, he says.

The veteran's first sermon was delivered at Perry. His salary at that time was $300 a year.

WILL MARK CONCRETE HIGHWAYS IN COUNTY

The state highway commission and the Wood County highway commission will cooperate in marking the center lines on concrete highways in the county according to F. F. Mengel, division highway engineer and Edw. Morris, county highway commissioner.

"We have had compliments from many states, Mr. Mengel stated. One tourist from Florida thought it was a mighty good plan. We see no reason why all concrete roads should not have the centers marked so that all motorists will know when they are on the wrong side of the road. A machine will be rigged up to mark the center lines and do it quickly."

The plan was tried out on the Port Edwards and Nekoosa pavement and has the full approval of the motorists who say that it aids them in keeping on the right side of the road. Many accidents will be prevented by such a system it is expected.

IDEAL THEATRE HAS BIG ELECTRIC SIGN

John Stark, owner and manager of the Ideal theater, is installing a new up-to-date electric sign. The upper part with the word Ideal is 10½ feet high, and the lower part which shows the names of the stars and the dates of attractions is 7 feet wide and 4 feet deep. A flasher which will encircle the entire sign is expected to arrive the latter part of this week.

Ask Dave!

Will Hays, postmaster general, after a personal investigation, as shown above, is convinced that David Garvey knows everything. "Ask Dave, he knows," says Hays, who has installed him in a general information bureau for Washington visitors.

SAMUEL PARKER DIES ON SUNDAY

PIONEER AND RESPECTED CITIZEN SUCCUMBS AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Samuel Parker passed away Sunday morning, September 25 at 6:30 a. m. at his home on 11th street north, after a long illness. He had attained the ripe age of 82 years.

Mr. Parker had been in feeble health for the past four years, but always being able to meet and greet his friends. Two weeks ago he was taken critically ill and during that time was a great sufferer until the end came Sunday.

Mr. Parker was born at the foot of the Green Mountains at Northfield, Vermont, April 11, 1839. In 1848, at the age of nine years, he moved with his parents to Dane county, Wisconsin, settling on a large farm. When he was 15 years of age, he came to this city, living here the remainder of his life. He was married June 28, 1863, to Clara Snyder of Grand Rapids. To this union five children were born, two dying in infancy.

Mr. Parker was one of the pioneers of Wood county, coming here in the spring of 1854, when Grand Rapids was reached by stage coach. During his active life he served as head sawyer in the lumber mills of Grand Rapids and vicinity.

Civil War Veteran

Mr. Parker was a Civil War veteran, enlisting in the 46th Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteers, and serving until the war ended. During his absence occurred the death of their infant son, Frederick. Mr. Parker was a charter member of the G. A. R. in which he had always taken an active part.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his aged wife, one son, Charles, who has for the past two years made his home with his parents, two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Courtney of Milton and Mrs. Fred Stamm of Minneapolis. He is also survived by seven grandchildren and six greatgrandchildren.

Funeral Tuesday

During his last illness he had the comfort and consolation of having his wife, his three children and two of his grandchildren at his bedside until the end. Mr. Parker was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a friend to all and especially loved by children.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. at the home and 2:00 p. m. at the Methodist church. Burial will be held at the Forest Hill cemetery.

HERRING FISHERMEN PREPARING FOR SEASON

Green Bay, Wis.—Herring fishermen are staking out their "claims" all along the bay shore and the fish are expected to begin their annual run within the next two weeks. Buyers from the east will begin to arrive in a few days. Many boats from ports down the lake are planning to come here for the commercial fishing. Last year hundreds of tons of herring were caught.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS RUN DOWN BY TRUCK

Madison, Wis.—Robert Rothenburg, Springfield, Minn., and Otis Bersing, Blair, both university students, narrowly escaped fatal injuries Saturday night. They were run down by a heavy truck when shielding themselves from the rain by an umbrella. Both men were reported to be badly bruised.

Mobilize Constabulary

Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster, after conference with military and police authorities, announced that it has been decided to mobilize the special constabulary in certain sections of the north of Ireland in order to maintain order. A half dozen shots in the Newtown roads district was the only outward indication of excited feeling this morning. It is feared however that last night's bomb throwing and rioting will bring forth reprisals unless the military are prepared to take a vigorous stand.

Premier Wants Conference

London, Sept. 26—Although Lloyd George's reply to DeValera's latest note has not yet been made public, there is a strongly developed feeling here that the British premier will give the Sinn Fein leader every possible opportunity to come to a peaceable settlement without undue loss of dignity or prestige with his Irish followers. It is believed certain that Lloyd George will go as far as possible to bring about another conference in the hope that some way will be found to keep Ireland peaceably within the empire.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOLS HAVE BIG ENROLLMENT

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26— Enrollment in the nine normal schools of Wisconsin is 1081 greater this year than in 1920, a report today of William Kittle, secretary of the board of normal regents shows. This is an increase of 28 per cent, and brings the total number of students from 3876 in 1920 to 4957 in 1921.

All of the normal schools with the exception of Eau Claire, Platteville, River Falls and Whitewater, showed an enrollment at least 100 greater than last year, and all of them without exception showed some increase.

Milwaukee normal went over the 1,000 mark in enrollment for the first time in the history of the school, with a jump from 941 to 1246, an increase of 305.

Eau Claire Normal rose from 261 to 336, an increase of 75 over last year. At La Crosse the enrollment increased 114, with a rise from 404 to 518.

The Oshkosh Normal had an increase of 102 from its previous enrollment of 402, the new total reaching 511, while Platteville increased from 230 to 290, a jump of 60 students. An increase of 92 is shown in the registration at River Falls where the number rose from 408 to 500.

There are 128 more students at Stevens Point normal school than there were last year when the number stood at 428. The enrollment is now 548. Superior has 495 students this year, an increase of 121 over last year when 374 were in attendance, while the Whitewater normal has 513 students compared to 436 in 1920.

AMERICAN LEGION WILL HAVE FEED WEDNESDAY

The Entertainment Committee of the Chas. Hagerstrom Post No. 9 of American Legion has announced that on Wednesday evening, September 28 at eight o'clock they are going to put on a big feed. All the men are requested to bring a good healthy appetite.

The feed will be held in the National Guard hall and all men are asked to come and partake.

For automobilists who smoke an ash receiver has been invented with sharp points with which it can be hung anywhere in the upholstery of a car.

CLOSE BRIDGE

The bridge will be closed to all except foot traffic tonight at ten o'clock, according to orders issued today by Chief of Police Payne. This is necessary in order to give the workmen an opportunity to proceed with the raising of the center of the bridge without interruption.

The bridge will open to traffic in the morning as usual.

SCOUT COUNCIL TO PICK EXECUTIVE

BOYS HOPING THAT MEN WILL NOT LET ACTIVITIES DROP—LOCAL PEOPLE WANT TO KEEP ORGANIZATION.

The future of the Boy Scout work in Wisconsin Rapids has been hanging in the balance due to the unusually heavy demands financially upon the community to keep the local council up in its present standard of work among the boys. Plans to consolidate the work with Marshfield were advanced, which did not meet with the approval of many interested in boys work. Others who have been interested in seeing the council perpetuated will not stand for a combination with any other city, it is said.

Must Name Successor

The Boy Scout affairs were brought to a head recently when the present Scout executive, Jas. F. Knapp resigned to take up other work. The problem of naming a successor fell in line with the discussion of the boy scout financial program which will require considerable funds to carry on the work here in the future along lines followed in the past. While every attempt will be made to handle the affairs economically, it is expected that the council will not vote any retrenchment in the general program for future scout work.

One Scout who has been an enthusiastic member for nearly three years, hit the nail on the head when he said: "We never had a better time than we have had in the last year. I am glad I am a scout and I want to see it continued because there is something doing all the time. The rest of the kids want to keep it going too."

RISING TEMPERATURE FORECAST FOR TUESDAY

According to today's weather bulletin, generally fair weather Monday and probably Tuesday is predicted throughout this district. Readings in the northwest continue moderate. No unseasonably low temperatures are in sight for several days.

The forecast for this immediate vicinity, according to Nixon, is generally fair tonight and tomorrow, slowly rising temperature.

At noon today mercury stood at the 70 mark, while last night 35 degrees was reported. A year ago today extreme temperatures were 86 and 64. The coldest place reported yesterday was 30 degrees at Elkins, W. Va., while Omaha, Nebr., with 94 was the warmest. Sunrise at 5:51 a. m. and sunset at 5:51 p. m.

TAFT WILL ADDRESS DETROIT CONFERENCE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26—Important changes in the government of the Unitarian church are to be discussed here at the Twenty-ninth biennial conference of the church October 4-7, inclusive, according to announcement of church leaders. The meeting, to be attended by about 700 delegates from the United States and Canada, is described in the official call for the conference as "one of the cross-roads in American Unitarianism."

Chief Justice William Howard Taft of the United States Supreme court, president of the conference, will deliver one of the chief addresses.

NEW YORK WILL HAVE SCHOOL FOR SLEUTHS

New York, Sept. 26—Department of Justice agents are going to school to read books and learn how to be detectives.

The curriculum of the school, just started by the Bureau of Investigation, includes study of such technicalities as the laws of search and arrest, rudiments of evidence, rights of citizens and preparation of cases for prosecution.

William J. Burns, chief of the bureau, explained that establishment of the school was the first step to do away with hit-or-miss methods.

"We are going to teach our men to get results," he said "Shipshod investigation, making discoveries only by chance, is going to stop. And men who cannot be taught to be effective will be dropped.

"Federal investigators are going to learn right away that they are not to flash their shields for their own amusement; and they are going to learn that the real object of this bureau is to protect citizens and to prevent crime, not just to arrest crooks. We are not going to set the world afire, but we are going to give this country a detective service of which its citizens can be as proud as the English are of Scotland Yard."

POLISH PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

(By Associated Press)

Lemberg, Poland, Sept. 26.—General Joseph Pilsudski, president of the Polish republic, narrowly escaped assassination here last night. Count Grabowski, who was with the president at the time was wounded, but not seriously.

The assassin attempted suicide, but was unsuccessful and was immediately placed under arrest. His identity and the motive for the attempt have not been discovered as yet.

G. A. R. GATHERS AGAIN

Indianapolis, Sept. 26—The dwindling ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are gathering here for the fifty fifth annual encampment, today being devoted to registration. Nine thousand members of the organization have died since the last encampment a year ago.

PREDICTS DARK FUTURE FOR EUROPEAN NATIONS

Budapest—The future of the world is decidedly dark for the Eastern Hemisphere, says Professor Henry Marczali, the famous Hungarian historian and philosopher. He told the correspondent that the balance of financial, economic and labor superiority had shifted to America for years to come.

"A few years and Russia will be as powerful as it was before the war," he asserted. "The fate of Russia will decide the fate of Europe and perhaps that of the whole world as well. The Germans, hated by the French and mistrusted by the other big powers, will find their natural ally in Russia. And if the difference between America and Japan becomes aggravated, a formidable alliance of Japan, Russia and Germany will soon make the world realize that lasting peace never was farther off the horizon of humanity than in our days.

PAPER MILL MEN END CONVENTION

COOPERATION BETWEEN EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE AND REFORESTATION URGED AT FINAL BANQUET AT WITTER

The Paper Mill Superintendent's Convention closed here Saturday evening with a banquet at the Hotel Witter. Efficiency in mill management, labor relations, and the need for conservation and reforestation were discussed.

F. C. Boyce of Wausau presided as toastmaster. He gave a short talk telling of the realization of the dreams of George Mead, president of the Consolidated, in the installation of the big machine there, and of the advance in the whole paper industry which the development and use of such a machine presaged.

Emphasize Labor Relations

Clarence Jackson, manager of the Wisconsin Rapids plant of the Consolidated, spoke on the human side of efficient mill operation. This theme was carried on by Mr. E. J. Massey, secretary and treasurer of the association, who emphasized the fact that mutual trust between employer and employee is essential to the most successful results.

The need for reforestation to insure future supplies of pulp wood was brought out by Mr. E. C. Bert of the Downing Box Company of Milwaukee. In Wisconsin alone there are thousands of acres of idle land, unsuitable to cultivation, which will remain indefinitely unproductive unless planted with trees. Furthermore, at the rate at which the Canadian supply of timber is being depleted, this continent will be without an adequate supply of pulpwood unless immediate steps are taken to insure future supply.

ROCK COUNTY NEEDS ASSISTANT DIST. ATTY.

Janesville, Wis.—With the Rock county Municipal court at Janesville and the Beloit Municipal court swamped with moonshine cases, the need of an assistant district attorney to Sanley Dunwiddie is growing more and more. Nearly every one of the violators demand an examination and a jury trial and go the limit under the law to escape conviction. Few pleas of guilty are made.

The reason for this fact is largely that the maximum penalty is being given in the courts.

There were so many cases on the docket last week in the Beloit Municipal court, many of them had to be adjourned.

PLAN REORGANIZATION AT CHAMBER COMMERCE

Satisfied that all preliminaries are arranged and that a fair attendance will be on hand to plan the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce, local business men are confident that the affairs of the association will be straightened out satisfactorily at the meeting of the association at the city hall this evening.

Many of the business men have many problems which they hope to have ironed out by the reorganized association which should give it plenty of work in the future.

PAPER MEN HAVE PRAISE FOR THE CITY AND MILLS

VISITING SUPERINTENDENTS, SALESMEN AND ENGINEERS "LAY IT ON THICK" ABOUT THIS COMMUNITY

They must have had a good time.

The visiting paper mill superintendents, salesmen and engineers who attended the sectional meeting of the A. P. & P. A. here Friday and Saturday were loud in their praises of this community when interviewed by a reporter from the Tribune. Each one had something a little different to say and it makes interesting reading to those who know and like their home community. The interviews are as follows:

J. W. Hewitt, Neenah, representing the Hewitt Machine Co., "I have visited your picturesque city very often, but this is my first visit to Nekoosa. Both the Port Edwards and Nekoosa mills are up to date plants under perfect management. Of course, the Consolidated with its wonderful paper machine and other fine equipment, its beautiful grounds and office buildings is fine."

Would Like To Move Here.

Edward H. Bair, Industrial Engineer and chairman of the Entertainment Committee: "We have driven over the entire city and are unanimous in our opinion that it is one of the most beautiful clean and progressive cities in the state. I was especially impressed with the young blood in the business industries and managements. It's the young men we need at the helm of all business of today, and it seems you have accomplished that, your necessity. The cooperation between Wisconsin Rapids, Port Edwards and Nekoosa was also noticeable and commendable. Your river banks and drives are a joy to the eye. If you can show me where I can make a small investment, I will move with my family here and gladly become one of your citizens."

Likes Drives Here

F. C. Boyce, Wausau, Supt. of Wausau Paper Co., and inventor of the Boyce Meter for automobiles: "I am no stranger among you, having visited your attractive city on numerous occasions, and have many warm friends here. The mills are all fine and the new paper machine just installed at the Consolidated is a revelation in the paper industry."

L. Christensen, lubricating salesman of Standard Oil Co.: "I came here to attend the convention and enjoyed my visit to your mills, and your beautiful city, your drives and

One Scout who has been an enthusiastic member for nearly three years, hit the nail on the head when he said: "We never had a better time than we have had in the last year. I am glad I am a scout and I want to see it continued because there is something doing all the time. The rest of the kids want to keep it going too."

RISING TEMPERATURE FORECAST FOR TUESDAY

According to today's weather bulletin, generally fair weather Monday and probably Tuesday is predicted throughout this district. Readings in the northwest continue moderate. No unseasonably low temperatures are in sight for several days.

The forecast for this immediate vicinity, according to Nixon, is generally fair tonight and tomorrow, slowly rising temperature.

At noon today mercury stood at the 70 mark, while last night 35 degrees was reported. A year ago today extreme temperatures were 86 and 64. The coldest place reported yesterday was 30 degrees at Elkins, W. Va., while Omaha, Nebr., with 94 was the warmest. Sunrise at 5:51 a. m. and sunset at 5:61 p. m.

TAFT WILL ADDRESS DETROIT CONFERENCE

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 26—Important changes in the government of the Unitarian church are to be discussed here at the Twenty-ninth biennial conference of the church October 4-7, inclusive, according to announcement of church leaders. The meeting, to be attended by about 700 delegates from the United States and Canada, is described in the official call for the conference as "one of the cross-roads in American Unitarianism."

Chief Justice William Howard Taft of the United States Supreme court, president of the conference, will deliver one of the chief addresses.

TWO MEN KILL BEAR THAT ATTACKED THEM

Rhinelander, Wis.—While hunting ducks at Circle Lilly lake, E. S. Langenhahn and Otto Krahn were confronted by a 300 pound mother bear and cub. The large bear started after the men, who fired and killed her instantly. The cub escaped in the bushes.

NEW YORK WILL HAVE SCHOOL FOR SLEUTHS

New York, Sept. 26—Department of Justice agents are going to school to read books and learn how to be detectives.

The curriculum of the school, just started by the Bureau of Investigation, includes study of such technicalities as the laws of search and arrest, rudiments of evidence, rights of citizens and preparation of cases for prosecution.

William J. Burns, chief of the bureau, explained that establishment of the school was the first step to do away with hit-or-miss methods.

"We are going to teach our men to get results," he said "Slipshod investigation, making discoveries only by chance, is going to stop. And men who cannot be taught to be effective will be dropped.

"Federal investigators are going to learn right away that they are not to flash their shields for their own amusement; and they are going to learn that the real object of this bureau is to protect citizens and to prevent crime, not just to arrest crooks. We are not going to set the world afire, but we are going to give this country a detective service of which its citizens can be as proud as the English are of Scotland Yard."

POLISH PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

(By Associated Press)

Lemberg, Poland, Sept. 26.—General Joseph Pilsudski, president of the Polish republic, narrowly escaped assassination here last night. Count Grabowski, who was with the president at the time was wounded, but not seriously.

The assassin attempted suicide, but was unsuccessful and was immediately placed under arrest. His identity and the motive for the attempt have not been discovered as yet.

G. A. R. GATHERS AGAIN

Indianapolis, Sept. 26—The dwindling ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic are gathering here for the fifty fifth annual encampment, today being devoted to registration. Nine thousand members of the organization have died since the last encampment a year ago.

PREDICTS DARK FUTURE FOR EUROPEAN NATIONS

Budapest—The future of the world is decidedly dark for the Eastern Hemisphere, says Professor Henry Marczali, the famous Hungarian historian and philosopher. He told the correspondent that the balance of financial, economic and labor superiority had shifted to America for years to come.

"A few years and Russia will be as powerful as it was before the war," he asserted. "The fate of Russia will decide the fate of Europe and perhaps that of the whole world as well. The Germans, hated by the French and mistrusted by the other big powers, will find their natural ally in Russia. And if the difference between America and Japan becomes aggravated, a formidable alliance of Japan, Russia and Germany will soon make the world realize that lasting peace never was farther off the horizon of humanity than in our days.

PAPER MILL MEN END CONVENTION

COOPERATION BETWEEN EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE AND REFORESTATION URGED AT FINAL BANQUET AT WITTER

The Paper Mill Superintendent's Convention closed here Saturday evening with a banquet at the Hotel Witter. Efficiency in mill management, labor relations, and the need for conservation and reforestation were discussed.

F. C. Boyce of Wausau presided as toastmaster. He gave a short talk telling of the realization of the dreams of George Mead, president of the Consolidated, in the installation of the big machine there, and of the advance in the whole paper industry which the development and use of such a machine presaged.

Emphasize Labor Relations

Clarence Jackson, manager of the Wisconsin Rapids plant of the Consolidated, spoke on the human side of efficient mill operation. This theme was carried on by Mr. E. J. Massey, secretary and treasurer of the association, who emphasized the fact that mutual trust between employer and employee is essential to the most successful results.

The need for reforestation to insure future supplies of pulp wood was brought out by Mr. E. C. Bert of the Downing Box Company of Milwaukee. In Wisconsin alone there are thousands of acres of idle land, unsuitable to cultivation, which will remain indefinitely unproductive unless planted with trees. Furthermore, at the rate at which the Canadian supply of timber is being depleted, this continent will be without an adequate supply of pulpwood unless immediate steps are taken to insure future supply.

ROCK COUNTY NEEDS ASSISTANT DIST. ATTY.

Janesville, Wis.—With the Rock county Municipal court at Janesville and the Beloit Municipal court swamped with moonshine cases, the need of an assistant district attorney to Sanley Dunwiddie is growing more and more. Nearly every one of the violators demand an examination and a jury trial and go the limit under the law to escape conviction. Few pleas of guilty are made.

The reason for this fact is largely that the maximum penalty is being given in the courts.

There were so many cases on the docket last week in the Beloit Municipal court, many of them had to be adjourned.

PLAN REORGANIZATION AT CHAMBER COMMERCE

Satisfied that all preliminaries are arranged and that a fair attendance will be on hand to plan the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce, local business men are confident that the affairs of the association will be straightened out satisfactorily at the meeting of the association at the city hall this evening.

Many of the business men have many problems which they hope to have ironed out by the reorganized association which should give it plenty of work in the future.

PAPER MEN HAVE PRAISE FOR THE CITY AND MILLS

VISITING SUPERINTENDENTS, SALESMEN AND ENGINEERS "LAY IT ON THICK" ABOUT THIS COMMUNITY

They must have had a good time.

The visiting paper mill superintendents, salesmen and engineers who attended the sectional meeting of the A. P. & P. A. here Friday and Saturday were loud in their praises of this community when interviewed by a reporter from the Tribune. Each one had something a little different to say and it makes interesting reading to those who know and like their home community. The interviews are as follows:

J. W. Hewitt, Neenah, representing the Hewitt Machine Co., "I have visited your picturesque city very often, but this is my first visit to Nekoosa. Both the Port Edwards and Nekoosa mills are up to date plants under perfect management. Of course, the Consolidated with its wonderful paper machine and other fine equipment, its beautiful grounds and office buildings is fine."

Would Like To Move Here.

Edward H. Bair, Industrial Engineer and chairman of the Entertainment Committee: "We have driven over the entire city and are unanimous in our opinion that it is one of the most beautiful clean and progressive cities in the state. I was especially impressed with the young blood in the business industries and managements. It's the young men we need at the helm of all business of today and it seems you have accomplished that, your necessity. The cooperation between Wisconsin Rapids, Port Edwards and Nekoosa was also noticeable and commendable. Your river banks and drives are a joy to the eye. If you can show me where I can make a small investment, I will move with my family here and gladly become one of your citizens."

Likes Drives Here.

F. C. Boyce, Wausau, Supt. of Wausau Paper Co., and inventor of the Boyce Meter for automobiles: "I am no stranger among you, having visited your attractive city on numerous occasions, and have many warm friends here. The mills are all fine and the new paper machine just installed at the Consolidated is a revalation in the paper industry."

L. Christensen, lubricating salesman of Standard Oil Co.: "I came here to attend the convention, and enjoyed my visit to your mills, and your beautiful city, your drives and

PRESAGE WHOLESALE POLICE DISMISSAL

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26—Wholesale dismissal of Chicago policemen is presaged in connection with the federal investigation of liquor law violations in the city. Chief of Police Charles Fitzmorris in a public announcement declared it to be his belief that half of the members of the police force would be found to be involved in violations of the law.

United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne is aiding the federal investigators in establishing the identity of those involved. Fitzmorris also has a list, and it is believed that the authorities are about ready to take action.

POLICE QUELL FIGHT AT DANCE IN BABCOCK

Chief of Police R. S. Payne and Undersheriff C. W. Bluett were called to Babcock Saturday evening to quell a disturbance at a dance in the town hall there.

It is intimated that the fracas was largely due to moonshine liquor, and though no arrests have been made as yet, it is rumored that some police action will be taken.

JESSE GUILFORD WINS AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

Jesse Guilford of Boston by overwhelming Bob Gardner, twice former champion and recent conqueror of Willie Hunter the British aspirant to the American title, Saturday afternoon became American amateur golf champion. The score, 7 up and 6, testifies to the steady skill of the champion.

Guilford earned his winning margin in the morning, turning 6 up by an all around display of rock-ribbed steadiness, coupled with some superfine putting. Gardner made a doughty effort to turn the tide, but his putter missed on several cylinders and he incurred the worst defeat of his career as a championship figure.

MEXICO' S INDEPENDENCE

Mexico is celebrating the centennial of her independence from Spain. What a hundred years it has been! Twice the country has been ruled nominally as an empire, and as a republic the greater part of the time the government has not been more stable. Often its presidents changed with the frequency of the moon. It has been a turbulent century and the last decade was not less so than any that preceded it.

The conditions in Mexico under the Spanish dominion were the same as prevailed in other Spanish-ruled lands and under independence they did not improve. A mongrel race, the Mexicans always have had an affinity for trouble, and if that spirit seems a bit dormant now there is no assurance it will not awake again. How much of the responsibility for the internal dissensions which have characterized the people are due to misgovernment and how much to the natural liking of the people for trouble may not be accurately determined. However, it is clear that the people have not learned the lesson of yielding to the majority and the majority has not learned to consider the rights of the minority.

Under the rule of Diaz the government was despotic, yet it may be that such is the only kind for which Mexicans are at present fitted. It is certain that while there were great abuses of power under the Diaz regime there was order and the nation progressed with great rapidity. Had it been a more benevolent despotism it might not have been succeeded by the turmoil that ensued.

Yet the internal disorder which has marked the hundred years of independence is not surprising when the mixed character of the population is considered. Three-fourths of the people are of Indian blood, either pure or in mixture. Naturally ignorance prevails. Yet the natural resources of the country offer great possibilities. The centennial celebration marks more the lapse of time than great political advancement, though progress commercially has been made, of course. It is to be hoped that entrance on the second century will usher in an area of stability and quiet.

A cessation from revolution and a turning toward industry would make Mexico's second hundred years greatly in contrast with the first.

MIGRATION FOR TWO PINTS

A Mediterranean steamer out of New York, it is reported, has on board several passengers who are "going to live in Central Europe for a year by order of their physicians, who stated that it was essential for the health of their patients to have at least two pints of good beer daily."

The departure of this handful of thirsty exiles need not give those of us who stay at home any great cause for worry. We shall probably be able to keep the country going without them.

It is even doubtful whether the nature of the malady which demands a tribute of two pints of good beer daily will arouse general interest, except perhaps for the purpose of finding out what it is, so that this disease may the better be avoided. But the destination of these victims of a disease which demands a libation of two pints of good beer daily gives cause for reflection. One is justified in the opinion that the treatment is more terrible than the malady. A year in Central Europe even with a generous measure of malt and hops as counter-irritant is a sentence not to be taken lightly. For a patient who needs rest and quiet and a moderate allowance of substantial food Central Europe makes no appeal as a desirable retreat.

There is too much brewing over there, of things that are not to be quaffed. There is too much stirring in the political atmosphere and not enough in the industrial field. In the weird succession of social upheavals and disturbances it is doubtful whether one could even be sure of his two pints of good beer daily. And even with the two pints it is a strange mixture of fears and forebodings which Central Europe has to offer these unfortunate exiles from America.

In sober truth it must be admitted that as between Central Europe with its two pints and America with its soda pop the majority of us will prefer the latter.

THE MOTOR TRUCK

There is no longer a monopoly of transport. Road and river have come to compete actively with railway. But the motor was the first to break the monopoly and remains everywhere as the great revolutionizing force.

Britain is just facing this problem. The railways, emerging from government control, find that during the years just passed motor transport has reached the point where the road vehicle gets the pick of the freight and not a little of the passenger traffic. The yearly loss to the railways through this competition is put at 6,000,000 tons.

Wherein is the advantage? Obviously in the mobility of the motor vehicle. Choosing its traffic, its rates frequently are lower. But, not only in freight rates has it the edge; it can transport goods more quickly, and, what is vital to the shipper, with fewer handling charges. Thus, even where the rates are equal or even slightly lower on the railways, the advantages of road-borne freight are so compelling that the operators of motor vehicles have a waiting list and can pick the loads they prefer to haul, leaving the remainder to the railways.

Clearly, each mode of transport is essential. In long haulage and heavy bulk traffic the railway is obviously the agent of advantage; in short hauls the road vehicle is at its best. If each develops its branch of enterprise both will prosper, and each will act as a check on the other to the advantage of the public.

That the railways will make a determined effort to meet road transport goes for the saying. They will do this, probably, by cheaper rates, by economy in operation, by reduction in terminal delays, and by improvement in handling methods at the depots. In this way they will induce much traffic to return to their lines. Meantime the road vehicles also will be developing, for it is absurd to think that they have reached their maximum of efficiency.

The overloaded motor truck always will be the object of repression on the highways, but the motor truck, in itself, is indispensable to industry. Thus there is room for both forms of transport; co-ordinated, much that is un-economic in the present systems will be removed.

The reformed dance is another disarmament movement.

The unemployment conference will at least furnish employment to a number of economic advisers.

YALE WILL NUMBER BLUE GRID PLAYERS

New Haven, Conn.—Yale football players are to wear numbers this season beginning with the game against Bates, Saturday, it is announced by Head Coach Jones. HARDING WILL VISIT BIRMINGHAM PAGEANT

Birmingham, Ala., —Birmingham will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary Oct. 24 to 29 with an exposition and historical pageant depicting the development of the South's leading industrial city from the building of its first house in 1871. Today the city has almost reached a population of 200,000.

President Harding has arranged to visit Birmingham on this occasion, spending the entire day of Oct. 26 here. On his arrival he will ride at the head of a parade in which all the military units of the state will participate. His guard will consist of 1000 members of the American Legion in uniform.

COAL IS PLENTIFUL BUT PRICE HOLDS UP

Madison, Wis., Coal will be plentiful in Wisconsin this winter, but at prices equal to those of last year, the department of markets announces today after an extended investigation of the state situation. The department says that it finds the cost of the consumer dictated by eastern railroad companies and not established by emand and supply or competition.

Receipts of soft coal at Wisconsin docks up to September 1 had increased 100 per cent over 1920, and of hard coal about 35 per cent, the report shows. These heavy receipts are said to be due to the increase in buying which has left room for further shipments.

The state will need 10,000,000 tons of bituminous coal this winter, and 2,200,000 tons of anthracite, according to the department report. Of this amount 6,769,035 tons of bituminous is said to have been received up to September 1, together with 1,886,000 tons of anthracite.

The deficiency is expected to be supplied before the close of lake navigation, except for 2,000,000 tons of soft coal for which all rail shipments from Illinois and Indiana will provide.

RUM RUNNING KEEPS DANISH CRAFT BUSY

Copenhagen—Europe has its rum-runners, as well as America. Fifty per cent of Danish shipping is still idle and many smaller craft are employed in organized "smuggling of whisky, gin and other alcoholic beverages to wet inhabitants of dry countries like Norway and Finland and in a smaller degree to Sweden.

A yachtsman who has been cruising in Norwegian waters told the correspondent that the price of a drink has doubled or trebled in Norway, where prohibition rules.

CORN CROP IS SAFE SAYS WEEKLY REPORT

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26—Corn is ripe and beyond the danger of frost damage even in the extreme northern counties the weekly bulletin of the crop reporting service brings out. A substantial improvement in the condition of all crops is noted by the report.

Silo filling is declared to be completed with much refilling after settling, already done, while over half of the corn for husking and shredding is said to be cut and in shocks.

Some damage is reported to corn which was blown down early in the month. Worm damage is said to be quite general to corn in the eastern and southern counties, with the crop, on the whole, one of the best that has ever been raised in the state.

Some improvement is noted in late potatoes. Digging of the main crop will be general soon, the report says. Tobacco harvesting is said to have been hampered somewhat by continued wet weather. Some of the crop in sheds has been damaged by pole rot.

Winter grains are reported as doing exceptionally well. Wheat has already come up about four inches with a uniform stand, while early planted rye is up with seeding general.

The new seeding of hay is said to be improving constantly. Clover which it was thought had been burned out during the excessive heat of the summer is again appearing, according to the report. Pastures are declared to be growing luxuriant.

The clover seed harvest was hampered by rain and some in the bundle or swath injured. Sugar beets are reported as improving, with the cabbage prospect increasing. The general condition of live stock is reported as good.

Freight vessels with interchangeable hulls and sterns, the former carrying the cargo and the latter the propelling machinery, are a Frenchman's idea for reducing transportation costs, one stern serving several hulls.

Either gasoline or acetylene can be used in an English device to prevent motor truck radiators freezing.

LIBRARY NOTES

BOOKS ON SOCIAL SUBJECTS AT LIBRARY

The Conference of Social Work will bring to Wisconsin Rapids speakers on very interesting and vital subjects. There was a time when these subjects were of interest to a few social workers. Now, however, these problems of public and community welfare should not only be of interest but of real concern to all. There are many books on these subjects and the following are some available at the local library at the present time:

Addams—New conscience and an old evil.

Addams—Spirit of youth and the city streets.

Basset—When the workmen help you manage.

Boardman—Under the red cross flag.

Boy Scouts—Handbook for scout masters.

Carey—Scout law in practice.

Clark—High school boy and his problems.

Commons—Industrial goodwill.

Dickinson—You boy.

Edwards—Popular amusements.

Espey—Leaders of girls.

Folk—Care of destitute, neglected and delinquent children.

Forbush—Boy problem in the home.

Hall—Youth, its education, regiment and hygiene.

Herrick—My boy and I.

Leitch—Man to man.

Leacock—Unsolved riddle of social justice.

Lescohier—Labor market.

Merrill—Winning the boy.

Richardson—Boy scout movement.

Russell Sage Foundation Juvenile court laws.

Russell Sage Foundation Public health in many lands.

Slattery—American girl and her community.

VanVorst—Cry of the children.

Ward—Social center.

The most recent material is in pamphlet form, and the library has pamphlets representing practically all of the phases of social work.

TRAGEDY THRIVES ON CARELESS WORDS

"Think More and Say Less" is Lesson Conveyed by New Realart Special

Everyone has possibly read of the wise old owl who sat in an oak, who held his own tongue but saw and heard a great deal, yet few of us perhaps sealize the virtue of such advice as "think more and say less" until we have had a lesson brought home to us in some impressive way.

The new picture at the Palace theater which is entitled "The Furnace," and is a new Realart Special Production by William D. Taylor, smashes this lesson home in a way that many will remember for a long time to come.

In that production, which is based on the new novel by the English author "Pan", the idle threat made just before her marriage by Folly Vallance, a popular London actress and the bride-to-be of Anthony Bond, a wealthy social favorite, is the basis for all the tragedy that follows the marriage. The girl was heard to remark lightly that if Anthony jilted her, she would sue him for breach of promise. This was said in jest, but when the girl's fiance heard of the remark, just before the wedding, he interpreted it as meaning that the girl did not really love him. He goes ahead with the marriage but repudiates her as his wife. Some of the most powerful dramatic situations ever screened follow the estrangement.

Agnes Ayres plays the role of Folly Vallance and Antnony Bond is ably portrayed by Jerome Patrick, the well-known legitimate actor and screen favorite. Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Fred Turner, Mayme Kelso, Lucien Littlefield, Robert Bolder, and other favorites also appear in the all-star cast.

Julia Crawford Ivers wrote the scenario and James C. Van Trees is responsible for the remarkable photography.

DALY'S THEATER

The many lovers of good wholesome comedy and catchy music will be delighted to learn that the popular musical surprise, "Bringing up Father in Wall Street," is scheduled to appear at the Daly's theater, Sept. 28th. This splendid musical comedy comes direct from its long engagement at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, the Home of Grand Opera, and the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, where it taxed the capacities of the two huge playhouses. This season's offering is said to be a riot of song, laughter, catchy music, smart costumes, pretty girls and a scenic production rarely equalled by traveling organizations. Charlie Chaplin said: "I had many happy moments following the experiences of Mr. Jiggs in that clever and most amusing comedy, 'Bringing Up Father.'" It is one of those captivating, snappy musical comedy offerings which is bound to move the most profound stoic to outbursts of laughter and applause.

MAJESTIC THEATER, STEVENS POINT

"Irene," the musical comedy that is being sung and danced on the four quarters of the globe, and which comes to the Majestic Theater, Stevens Point, Sept. 28, will be presented by a splendid cast which includes Ann Milburn in the part of the vivacious shopgirl, Irene O'Dare; Mary E. Moore, Peggy Dunn, Frank Ross, Frank McNellis, Emma DeWeals, Ursula O'Hare, Ada May Talbot, Robert M. Burns, William Cohan, George C. Mantell, Frank Harrington, and a score more, with a special orchestra. This record breaking musical comedy written by James Montgomery, with score by Harry Tierney and lyrics by Joseph McCarthy, has been the marvel of the theaterical world. It holds all box office records for "sell-outs" and had an uninterrupted run of two years at the Vanderbilt Theater, New York—an accomplishment never before equalled in the histotry of musical plays.

MODISTE TELLS OF BIG CHANGE

SAYS FRIENDS ALL SEE A GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN HER SINCE SHE GOT TANLAC

"All the people I see for have noticed the big change Tanlac has made in my condition, and hardly a day passes but what someone asks me about it," said Mrs. Lena Linder, fashionable dress maker, residing at 292 5th St., Milwaukee, Wis

"Before I got Tanlac I had suffered for years with stomach trouble. I had no appetite, and everything seemed to disagree with me. I had terrible pains in my shoulders and back, and awful headaches and dizzy spells, and often became so weak I would just fall at my machine. I kept getting worse all the time in spite of everything I could do, and thought my health was ruined for life and that I would have to give up dress making altogether

"I saw in the papers one day where a woman who had been suffering just like I was had recovered her health by taking Tanlac, so I started right in on the medicine myself, and began improving at such rapid rate it astonished me. Since taking five bottles of the medicine I can do as much work as I ever could, and feel like I never had a sick day in my life. I never even dreamed anything could help me so wonderfully, and I'm only too glad to recommend Tanlac to others, for I believe it's the best medicine ever made."

Tanlac is sold in leading drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Marriage Is Like a Furnace

When two people marry without love —then life becomes a furnace. Instead of a sacrament, it becomes a sacrilege or a sacrifice. Jealousy, hatred, revenge feed its flames until it either destroys or purifies.

The great William D. Taylor production of "THE FURNACE" is one of the most tremendous presentations of this question yet conceived on the screen. You will be profoundly moved by the struggle of the people in "THE FURNACE" for happiness and love.

The ORIOLE

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright, 1921 by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Unfortunately Florence had not a copy, and when she informed her father of this fact, he professed himself greatly disappointed as well as anxious for the first appearance of the Oriole, that he might felicitate himself upon the evidence of his daughter's heretofore unsuspected talent. Florence was herself anxious for the newspaper's debut, and she made her anxiety so clear to Atwater & Rooter, Owners & Proprietors," every afternoon after school, during the following week, that by Thursday further argument and repartee on their part were felt to be indeed futile, and in order to have a little peace around there they carried her downstairs. At least they defined their action as "carrying," and, having deposited her in the yard, they were obliged to stand guard at the doors, which they closed and contrived to hold against her until her strength was worn out for that day.

Florence consoled herself. During the week she dropped in on all the members of "the family"—her grandfather, uncles and aunts and cousins, her great-uncles—and in each instance, after no protracted formal preliminaries, lightly remarked that she wrote poetry now; her first to appear in the forthcoming Oriole. And when Great-Aunt Carrie said, "Why, Florence, you're wonderful! I couldn't write a poem to save my life. I never could see how they do it," Florence laughed, made a deprecatory little side motion with her head, and responded: "Why, Aunt Carrie, that's nothing! It just kind of comes to you."

This also served as her explanation when some of her school friends expressed their admiration, after being told the news in confidence; though to the teachers she said, smiling ruefully, as in remembrance of midnight oil, "It does take work, of course!"

When opportunity offered, upon the street, she joined people she knew—and even rather distant acquaintances—and walked with them a little way, and with unaffected directness led the conversation to the subject of poetry, including her own contribution to that art. Altogether, if Florence was not in a fair way to become a poetic celebrity it was not her own fault but entirely that of the North End Daily Oriole, which was to make, its appearance on Saturday, but failed to do so, on account of too much enthusiasm on the part of Atwater & Rooter in manipulating the printing press. It broke, had to be repaired; and Florence, her nerves upset by the accident, demanded her money back. This was impossible, and the postponement proved to be an episode; moreover it gave time to let more people know of the treat that was coming.

Noble Looked Puzzled. "Surprising to See Me?" He Said Vaguely.

Among these was Noble Dill, Florence's Ideal. Until the Friday following her disappointment she had found no opportunity to acquaint this being with the news; and but for an encounter, partly due to chance, he might not have heard of it. Mr. Dill was twenty-two, but that was his only perceptible distinction. He was kind, usually, and not unpleasant in appearance or attire; yet he had neither beauty nor that look of power which is said to joggle women from their natural poise. He was the most everyday young man in all the town; and Florence's selection of him to be her ideal still awaits a precise explanation. Nevertheless, it had happened; and a sentimental enrichment of color in her cheeks was the result of her catching sight of him, as she was on the point of opening and entering her own front door that Friday afternoon on her return from school. He was passing the house, walking somewhat dreamily.

Florence stepped into the sheltering vestibule, peeping round it with earnest eyes to watch him as he went by; obviously he had taken no note of her. Satisfied of this, she waited until he was at a little distance, then ran lightly to the gate, hurried after him, and joined him.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Columbus, O.—Columbus and Milwaukee split even in their double bill here on Sunday, the home crowd winning the first game by a score of 5 to 2, thanks to effective mound work by Danforth, and the visitors bagging the second contest, 10 to 0, with Nemo Gearin in the title role.

Louisville—Louisville made it 13 out of 24 from St. Paul this season by capturing a double header on Sunday, 7 to 3 and 3 to 2, the second game going ten innings. With St. Paul leading 2 to 1 in the ninth inning of the second game and two batters out, Meyer, a pinch hitter singled and Acosta tripled, tying the score. In the tenth singles by Massey, Ellis and Ballenger put over the winning run. A fine drizzle fell throughout the afternoon.

Indianapolis—Minneapolis was practically eliminated from the American association pennant race here on Sunday when the Indians defeated the Millers in both games of a double header, 7 to 2 and 9 to 1. The game with Milwaukee scheduled for Monday will be played as a part of a double header on Wednesday.

Toledo—Toledo and Kansas City divided a doubleheader, the locals winning the first, 5 to 4, and the visitors the second, 4 to 3, the game being called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness. Bono pitched his twenty-fifth victory of the season.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York—New York regained its full game lead in the American league race on Sunday by defeating Cleveland by the overwhelming score of 21 to 7. New York's score is the season's high record.

Washington, D. C.—Washington drew up to within striking distance of third place by taking the last of the series from Detroit on Sunday, 3 to 2. Zachary was effective except in the third inning, while the locals bunched hits off Cole in three different rounds. It was Washington's seventh straight victory.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago—Red Thomas, Chicago's recruit outfielder from Henryetta, Okla., was the hero in the double victory over Boston on Sunday, each game going twelve innings, and the scores being 4 to 3, and 8 to 7 Thomas' single in the last inning of the initial contest sent two runs home for a victory and he started the rally in the last inning of the second contest with a double, and scored on a single by Kelleher, who batted for Freeman.

St. Louis—Douglas' fine pitching in the pinches enabled New York to defeat the Cardinals 5 to 2 here Sunday afternoon. Meusel's hitting was the feature. The Giant gardener driving in four of the five runs.

Cincinnati—Miljus was batted hard in the first and third innings on Sunday and Cincinnati won from Brooklyn by a score of 6 to 2. A doubleheader was to have been played but one game was cancelled on account of wet grounds.

The Cleveland Indians drew first blood in the opening game of the Little World Series at New York, but the Yankees won. Photo shows Larry Gardner veteran third baseman of the tribe crossing the plate with the first run

NEKOOSA NINE WINS TWO MORE VICTORIES

The Nekoosa locals added two more to the season's list of victories yesterday, by downing the City Point team in the morning and then travelling to Babcock and duplicating the process there.

The score of the morning game was 15 to 7.

The game with Babcock was a pitcher's battle between Lufer and Leroux, both of whom pitched practically air tight ball most of the time, and received errorless support.

Nekoosa's first score came in the fourth inning when Blackburn got a base on balls and come home on a three bagger by Jahns.

In the seventh Blackburn opened up with a single, stole second and was advanced to second on a sacrifice by Henry. Friberg then singled bringing in Blackburn again for the second and last tally. Although Babcock registered 8 safe hits to Nekoosa's 6, they were well scattered and resulted in no scores, the final result being 2 to 0.

PISTOL SHOOT HELD BY BATTERY SUNDAY

Battery E held a very successful pistol shoot on the range near Four Mile creek yesterday. Seventy five per cent of the battery were on hand, and considering the fact that almost all of the men were inexperienced in the use of the 45 automatic, the results attained were exceptionally good.

Six men qualified to shoot in record practice on the fifty yard range. These are C. Odegarde, J. Choppie, G. Morzynski, E. Smith, W. Kracke, and L. Gazely.

A good old-time feed was held after the shoot.

J. H. Miller donated the use of a hotel bus to transport the battery to the pistol range Sunday afternoon.

Battery E will have its semi-annual muster at the Armory Saturday, at which every member will be expected to be present. There will be a federal officer on hand to inspect the battery. Also Captain Anschuetz of Stevens Point will be present to make arrangements for the part the local battery is to play in the dedication of the new armory and stock pavilion at Stevens Point October 28.

Club Meeting—

The Tuesday club will hold a study meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. J. Mott, Lyons Park.

CITY LOCALS DOWNED BY SENECA INDIANS

The City Locals went down to a 6 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Seneca Corners Indians yesterday.

Williams, on the mound for the Senecas allowed but three scattered hits and struck out seven opposing batters. He was aided by splendid outfield support, which helped much to keep the score low.

Myers, who pitched for the Locals, was touched for six hits, and struck out five men.

BELOIT DOWNS PURPLE IN FIRST BATTLE 7-0

Beloit sprung a big surprise by defeating Northwestern, 7 to 0, at Evanston Saturday in the first game of the season for both teams. A fumble by Putnam of the Purple gave Beloit the ball on the one yard line in the first quarter, and Addie carried it over in one play for the winning score.

Northwestern had several chances to tie the score, three times getting inside of the five yard line, but fumbling of the wet ball, penalties, and a stubborn Beloit defense kept McDevitt's men from a touchdown.

The teams drew miserable weather conditions for the opening of the local season. A drizzling rain fell during the game making the field and ball slippery, but a crowd of 3,000 came out in raincoats.

Score by periods:

HIGH SCHOOL DOWNS ALUMNI BY 7-0 SCORE

High School 7, Alumni 0, was the final score of Saturday's bitterly contested but somewhat ragged gridiron fray. The game contained few thrills for the spectators, but gave Coach Ritthay's Wafriors an excellent opportunity to try their strength.

The high school line showed a world of strength and held firm throughout against the heavy alumni attack, gains by the latter being almost entirely via the aerial route. The high school back field appeared somewhat nervous and inexperienced, but showed a formidable attack which will be more effective after a week or so more of practice has smoothed out the rough spots.

The lone touch down came on a fumble by the alumni on their own twenty yard line. Noble picked up the ball and galloped over for the tally. Russell LeRoux kicked goal, completing the scoring for the afternoon.

scenery equal, if not surpass, anything in the state. In my visit to the mills I noted the extreme cleanliness throughout them all."

Hospitality Appeals

F. A. Beisel, Supt. Menasha Paper and Carton Co.: "This is my first visit to your city, and one I shall never forget. When I say your city, I mean to include Port Edwards and Nekoosa, all with their wonderfully clean and up to date equipments. Your city is certainly unusually beautiful with its fine business blocks and imposing residences, its beautiful river and drives. We were never more hospitably treated anywhere we have been. I shall surely come again wherever an oportunity presents itself."

Didn't Recognize Mill

Joseph H. Slater, Escanaba, Mich., General Supt. of Escanaba Paper Co: "I visited your city twenty-two years ago as a paper man from the east when the Consolidated mill had just started and which was then one of the finest mills of the day. On my return here today, I found it scarcely recognizable, with its gigantic strides in improvements. One thing that stood out in my impression is the beautiful surroundings of this plant. Having visited practically all of the big mills in the United States and Canada, I want to say that the wonderful big machine just installed reflects great credit on the company and shows the middle west up to anything in the east. I have been superintendent of paper mills of Canada and four of the largest mills of the United States, and am in a position to state that my visit to the Consolidated has been an education. I am delighted with your city and its hospitable people. I know I voice the sentiments of all who are attending the convention in saying that this is the pleasantest and most instructive convention we have ever had.

Compliments Consolidated

J. H. Slater, superintendent of the Escanaba Paper Mills, urged the need of paper mills being units, not divided forces of employers and employees opposing each other. He also emphasized the need for reforestation, and traced the great advance made in paper making machinery in recent years, complimenting the Consolidated upon its progressive attitude in this respect.

The future of the association was the subject of the last address of the evening, given by F. A. Beisel, newly elected secretary of the association. He outlined past accomplishments, and discussed the possibilities of future activity.

The convention closed with a vote of thanks to the Consolidated company for its courtesy and hospitality to the visiting delegates, and to Mr. Beisel, for his efforts in assuring the success of the gathering. Officers of the convention expressed their appreciation of the kindness and efficiency of the Hotel Witter management and employees

Keeping in Step With The Times

IN 1910 the consumption of gasoline in the United States approximated seven hundred and fifty million gallons. In 1920 the consumption of gasoline was well over four billion gallons.

This tremendous increase in demand came with a spectacular suddenness which strained the resources of the petroleum industry.

To meet it the Burton process was developed in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

While no claim is made that the Burton process is wholly responsible for the increased efficiency of refining practices, the fact remains that without it the tremendous increase of gasoline from crude oil would have been impossible.

In 1910 the average recovery of gasoline from the crudes of the United States was approximately 11 percent; in 1920 this average had been increased to upwards of 30 percent.

While this Company was producing gasoline in sufficient quantities to meet the ever-increasing demand upon its facilities, it also was confronted with the necessity of finding a market for the vast number of products made from that part of the petroleum which could not be converted into gasoline.

New uses for these by-products had to be found or created if gasoline were to be relieved of more than its just share of the cost of refining, thereby keeping the price of this fuel within the reach of all.

It required all the knowledge, experience, skill, resourcefulness, ingenuity and technical ability which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) could bring into play.

The Company has a just pride in its success in finding added fields of usefulness for old by-products, as well as for having developed new by-products of use and value.

Thus does the faithfulness of a big institution, fortified by science, ability and a will to be truly useful, function to the advantage of all.

The Tailored Suit for Autumn

Hitting the nail on the head won't be hard this Fall, for nailhead embroidery is the aim of many a winsome Suit.

A truly Parisienne shrug can only be accomplished in a Suit with a cape arrangement of sleeves or back, or a yoke effect quaintly chic.

Hems establish their own precedents, for swinging panels or fringed sashes longer than skirts themselves make for a delightful irregularity.

Suits fly colors of Italian Reds and Blues, copper browns, picturesquely termed gypsy and mohawk, and greens and browns forest-hued.

The A. B. C's of Suit Styles for Fall include: Appropriateness, Beauty and Conservative Cost—for styles are versatile—they will cleverly meet any occasion requirement; they are beautiful in fabric, color and trimming: and price tags respectfully concede to the Dollar its birthright.

The Suit That's Fur Trimmed

For any other than a strictly businesslike affair, a fur-trimmed Suit, complemented by a chic blouse, will prove adaptable for almost any day occasion. Thoruoghly competent are suits of velvety pile fabrics, in new rich colorings. Grey furs, such a Caracul and Squirrel and embroideries, especially those that recognize nailheads are favored as trimmings. Black duvetyn, luxurious in rick black fur, will also find its followers.

Those of Conservative Lines

The Suit of conservative lines broadens its outlook for Fall by adapting to its use some of the new pile fabrics, though navy blue twill and some trig, mannish tweeds, in new colorings, still reign supreme. Women will gladly greet collars that are convertible and coats that may be worn with or without belts. Some, a bit less conservative, show embroidered motifs or braiding.

NEKOOSA COUPLE WERE MARRIED THIS MORNING

Miss Valeria Margaret Edwards, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards and Clifford L. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at the Catholic church. Rev. Jos. Feldman performed the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Sophie Jelinski, of Stevens Point, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaid and Victor Larsen as groomsman.

The bride wore a suit of blue velour and a picture hat to match, carrying a bouquet of roses and Miss Jelinski also wore a blue velour suit.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to immediate relatives. The home being decorated with fall leaves and flowers.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gray have made Nekoosa their home, Mrs. Gray being born and raised here and attending the local school. Both young people are well known and very popular among their many friends here. Previous to her marriage Mrs. Gray was employed as operator at the local telephone office. Mr. Gray is employed by the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. and has a very good position.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray left on the noon train for Milwaukee, Janesville and other points to spend their honeymoon and will be gone for a week or ten days. After returning to Nekoosa they will live for a while at the home of the bride's parents.

NEKOOSA GUN CLUB HAS BIG TIME AT CHOWDER

Everyone who attended the Nekoosa Rod and Gun Club annual chowder which was held Sunday afternoon across the river, report that Larry Boles as chef is second to none. There was a large attendance and it is useless to say the boys had the time of their lives.

JESSE GUILFORD WINS AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

Jesse Guilford of Boston by overwhelming Bob Gardner, twice former champion and recent conqueror of Willie Hunter the British aspirant to the American title, Saturday afternoon became American amateur golf champion. The score, 7 up and 6, testifies to the steady skill of the champion.

Guilford earned his winning margin in the morning, turning 6 up by an all around display of rock-ribbed steadiness, coupled with some superfine putting. Gardner made a doughty effort to turn the tide, but his putter missed on several cylinders and he incurred the worst defeat of his career as a championship figure.

BROTHERS WILL MEET IN GRIDIRON BATTLE

Chicago, Sept. 26—When the University of Chicago and Northwestern University meet on the gridiron here on Oct. 1 in their annual battle two brothers will oppose each other. Eddie Palmer, former Englewood high school star plays fullback for Chicago and his younger brother Chuck is the Northwestern quarterback.

This occurrence was duplicated twice in the east last year, when the two Callahan brothers, captains of Yale and Princeton, and the two Robertson brothers, captains of Dartmouth and Syracuse, faced each other.

PEARS—PEARS—PEARS!

We have just received a carload of canning pears, which are of very fine quality.

Owing to the scarcity of fruits of all kinds this summer, canned fruits are sure to be extremely high in price, and we would advise you to take this opportunity to add to your stock of canned fruits, by canning a bushel or two of these pears.

The very reasonable price makes these pears an economical fruit to preserve.

HOME-MADE SAUSAGE

Here In Our Own Meat Market

That's the reason that the sausage that you buy from Siewert & Edwards tastes so good. It's manufactured from the grades of meat that are much better than the ordinary "sausage meat," seasoned just right to give it a flavor that makes it "different" and so much better than the ordinary sausage.

Home-Cured Hams and Bacon

are other specialties which bring people to our market. We take special care in curing hams and bacon to give them that real "home-cured" flavor that makes them really delicious.

YOU MIGHT MEET A FOOL

On a road at the foot of the Rockies is a sign that reads: "Danger—Sharp Curve—You Might Meet a Fool." Such a sign is calculated to make a driver sit up and take notice. The latter sees at almost every sharp turn a notice to proceed with caution, or to blow his horn, and comes to be little impressed by them. He has confidence in his ability to avoid running into another car. But if there is a fool in the other car the efforts of the most skillful driver to escape a collision may be futile.

There would be far fewer automobile mishaps if every driver would bear constantly in mind the possibility that there may be a fool ahead, not only on sharp curves, but on stretches of straight road. It is unwise to asume that each car on the highway is in charge of an experienced driver who knows the traffic rules and will obey them. You may think that inasmuch as you are keeping on your side of the road there is no danger in running your car at high speed. But you might meet a fool who will stick to his side of the road.

The fool you might meet is not necessarily another driver. He may be a pedestrian. Bearing in mind at all times that there are slow-witted folk in the world, who may be found in all places, and that there is a possibility that you may encounter one, you will not be so likely to meet with mishaps as if you took it for granted that all persons are level-headed and know enough to keep out of harm's way. Anyone who drives across the Wisconsin Rapids bridge without swearing or calling somebody a fool has good self control.

A WISE MAN

Despite the humorous side to his procedure, the announcement of Marshal Foch that he is going into a month's training on his country estate, preparatory to his visit to America next month, is more than a joke. The French warrior knows well that he has a strenuous experience ahead of him and he is no longer in his first youth. He whimsically remarks that "poor Marshal Fayolle was on the verge of dyspepsia when he returned from America, and he has a much better stomach than I. If the Americans insist on banqueting me as they propose. I am afraid the 'battle of America' will be my undoing."

Marshal Foch will not be the first distinguished visitor to wish that American hospitality were a little less exurbant. From Charles Dickens to Madame Curie our guests, while appreciating the warmth of their reception, have been inclined to comment on the manner in which they were kept on the go from the time of the arrival until their departure. But this treatment of visiting celebrities is not peculiar to America. The police reserves had to be called out in London the other day to rescue Charlie Chaplin from the over-enthusiastic greeting of the crowds.

If Marshal Foch fears for his digestion after the inevitable round of banquets he will be compelled to attend in this country, he might take a lesson from America's champion after-dinner speaker who, though many years older than the French commander, is still hale and hearty. Asked how he had been able to stand so many banquets during his oratorical career of more than 60 years, Chauncey M. Depew revealed a secret to his interviewer. He said that he was in the habit of having a simple meal before he went to a banquet and ate scarcely anything at the formal function. We don't want any guest, especially one whom we so much admire as Marshal Foch, to be disabled through our strenuous hospitality.

FOR A SOVIET "REPUBLIC"

A number of high officials of the National Socialist party have just resigned from the organization after issuing a bombastic proclamation of their intention to work for the establishment of "a soviet republic in the United States."

If their desire is to invite martyrdom in the form of a ride in the patrol wagon or some other phase of "persecution" by "the minions of capitalism" they will have to become torrid in their manifesto to the American people. For so long as they do not advocate the overthrow of our existing government through violence they are quite within their rights; their announced program is legal, though ridiculous.

There is no law to prevent any organization of men from making fools of themselves. That is their inalienable privilege, and it is one which many take full advantage.

No 100 per cent American institution ever had to wear a mask.

"What is a bloc?" asks an exchange. It is the distance by which Democratic critics of the administration generally miss public sentiment.

Possibly the reason so many automobilists drive so fast is because by that method they think they will get out of the way quickly and leave the road open for others.

Stomach Health Is Reason for Joy

(Tuesday Health Talk No. 46)
By W. C. Weirick, D.C.

The ability to eat without being reminded of the fact by stomach pains or other discomfort is one of the joys of life. This does not imply that a man must live to eat. It simply means that the man or woman with a good stomach is fortunate. Food can be enjoyed and forgotten, while other activities of life are carried forward.

There are many forms of stomach trouble, some of which are not due to stomach weakness, but to the weakness of other organs in the alimentary tract which includes the liver and other intestinal organs. When any of the alimentary organs are out of order, it may effect the stomach.

Chronic Nervous Dyspepsia is no Longer Present

"For a period of five months, attacks of nervous dyspepsia made life a nightmare. I took every form of treatment without relief until I tried chiropractic. After two months I was well and am more healthful today than ever before."—L. Klarman, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement 1231 C.

TRAGEDY THRIVES ON CARELESS WORDS

"Think More and Say Less" is Lesson Conveyed by New Realart Special

Everyone has possibly read of the wise old owl who sat in an oak, who held his own tongue but saw and heard a great deal, yet few of us perhaps sealize the virtue of such advice as "think more and say less" until we have had a lesson brought home to us in some impressive way.

The new picture at the Palace theater which is entitled "The Furnace," and is a new Realart Special Production by William D. Taylor, smashes this lesson home in a way that many will remember for a long time to come.

In that production, which is based on the new novel by the English author "Pan", the idle threat made just before her marriage by Folly Vallance, a popular London actress and the bride-to-be of Anthony Bond, a wealthy social favorite, is the basis for all the tragedy that follows the marriage. The girl was heard to remark lightly that if Anthony jilted her, she would sue him for breach of promise. This was said in jest, but when the girl's fiance heard of the remark, just before the wedding, he interpreted it as meaning that the girl did not really love him. He goes ahead with the marriage but repudiates her as his wife. Some of the most powerful dramatic situations ever screened follow the estrangement.

Agnes Ayres plays the role of Folly Vallance and Anthony Bond is ably portrayed by Jerome Patrick, the well-known legitimate actor and screen favorite. Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Fred Turner, Mayme Kelso, Lucien Littlefield, Robert Bolder, and other favorites also appear in the all-star cast.

Julia Crawford Ivers wrote the scenario and James C. Van Trees is responsible for the remarkable photography.

DALY'S THEATER

The many lovers of good wholesome comedy and catchy music will be delighted to learn that the popular musical surprise, "Bringing up Father in Wall Street," is scheduled to appear at the Daly's theater, Sept. 28th. This splendid musical comedy comes direct from its long engagement at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, the Home of Grand Opera, and the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, where it taxed the capacities of the two huge playhouses. This season's offering is said to be a riot of song, laughter, catchy music, smart costumes, pretty girls and a scenic production rarely equalled by traveling organizations. Charlie Chaplin said: "I had many happy moments following the experiences of Mr. Jiggs in that clever and most amusing comedy, 'Bringing Up Father.'" It is one of those captivating, snappy musical comedy offerings which is bound to move the most profound stoic to outbursts of laughter and applause.

MAJESTIC THEATER, STEVENS POINT

"Irene," the musical comedy that is being sung and danced on the four quarters of the globe, and which comes to the Majestic Theater, Stevens Point, Sept. 28, will be presented by a splendid cast which includes Ann Milburn in the part of the vivacious shopgirl, Irene O'Dare; Mary E. Moore, Peggy Dunn, Frank Ross, Frank McNellis, Emma DeWeals, Ursula O'Hare, Ada May Talbot, Robert M. Burns, William Cohan, George C. Mantell, Frank Harrington, and a score more, with a special orchestra. This record breaking musical comedy written by James Montgomery, with score by Harry Tierney and lyrics by Joseph McCarthy, has been the marvel of the theaterical world. It holds all box office records for "sell-outs" and had an uninterrupted run of two years at the Vanderbilt Theater, New York—an accomplishment never before equalled in the histotry of musical plays.

MODISTE TELLS OF BIG CHANGE

SAYS FRIENDS ALL SEE A GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN HER SINCE SHE GOT TANLAC

"All the people I sew for have noticed the big change Tanlac has made in my condition, and hardly a day passes but what someone asks me about it," said Mrs. Lena Linder, fashionable dress maker, residing at 292 5th St., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Before I got Tanlac I had suffered for years with stomach trouble. I had no appetite, and everything seemed to disagree with me. I had terrible pains in my shoulders and back, and awful headaches and dizzy spells, and often became so weak I would just fall at my machine. I kept getting worse all the time in spite of everything I could do, and thought my health was ruined for life and that I would have to give up dress making altogether.

"I saw in the papers one day where a woman who had been suffering just like I was had recovered her health by taking Tanlac, so I started right in on the medicine myself, and began improving at such rapid rate it astonished me. Since taking five bottles of the medicine I can do as much work as I ever could, and feel like I never had a sick day in my life. I never even dreamed anything could help me so wonderfully, and I'm only too glad to recommend Tanlac to others, for I believe it's the best medicine ever made."

Tanlac is sold in leading drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Marriage Is Like a Furnace

When two people marry without love —then life becomes a furnace. Instead of a sacrament, it becomes a sacrilege or a sacrifice. Jealousy, hatred, revenge feed its flames until it either destroys or purifies.

The great William D. Taylor production of "THE FURNACE" is one of the most tremendous presentations of this question yet conceived on the screen. You will be profoundly moved by the struggle of the people in "THE FURNACE" for happiness and love.

"Why, Mr. Dill!" she exclaimed, in her mother's most polished manner. "How surprising to see you! I presume, as we both happen to be walking in the same direction, we might just as well keep together."

Noble looked puzzled. "Surprising to see me?" he said vaguely. "I haven't been away anywhere in particular, Florence." Then at a thought, he brightened hopefully. "I'm glad to see you, Florence. Do you know if any of your family or relatives have heard when your Aunt Julia is coming home?"

"Aunt Julia? Why, she's out of town," said Florence. "She's visiting different people she used to know when she was away at school."

"Yes, I know." Mr Dill returned. "She's been gone six weeks."

"Oh, I don't believe it's that long," Florence said, casually; then with more earnestness: "Mr. Dill, I was goin' to ask you somep'n: it's kind of a funny question for me to ask, but—"

"Yes, she has," Noble interrupted, though not sensible that his remark was an interruption, for he had been unaware of Florence's voice in action after the word "long." "Oh yes, she has," he said. "It was six weeks day-before-yesterday afternoon. I saw your father downtown this morning, and he said he didn't know that any of the family had heard just when she was coming home. I thought maybe some of your relatives had a letter from her by this afternoon's mail, maybe."

"I guess not," said Florence. "Mr. Dill, there was a question I thought I'd ask you—it's kind of a funny question for me to—"

"Are you sure nobody has a letter from your Aunt Julia today?" Noble insisted.

"I guess they haven't. Mr. Dill, I was goin' to ask you—"

"It's strange," he murmured. "I don't see how she could stay this long. I should think she'd be anxious about your father and the home."

"Oh grandpa's all right; he says he kind of likes to have the house nice and quiet to himself; she anyway Aunt Julia enjoys visiting," Florence assured him; "Aunt Fanny saw a newspaper from one of the places where Aunt Julia's visiting her school room-mate, that had her picture in it and called her 'the famous Northern Beauty;' it was down South somewhere. Well, Mr Dill, I was just saying I believed I'd ask you—"

But a sectional rancor seemed to affect the young man all at once. "Oh, yes. I heard about that," he said. "Your Aunt Fanny lent my mother the newspaper. Those people in that part of the country—well—" He paused, remembering that it was only Florence he addressed; and he withheld from utterance his opinion that the Civil war ought to be fought all over again. "Your father said your grandmother hadn't heard from her for several days, and even then she hadn't said when she was coming home."

"No, I expect she didn't," said Florence. "Mr. Dill, I was goin' to ask you somep'n—it's kind of a queer kind of question for me to ask, I guess—" she paused. However, he did not interrupt her, seeming preoccupied with gloom; whereupon Florence permitted herself a deprecatory laugh and continued: "It might be you'd answer yes or it might be you'd answer no; but anyway I was goin' to ask you—it's kind of a funny question for me to ask, I expect—but do you like poetry?"

"What?"

"Well, as things have turned out lately I guess it's kind of a funny question, Mr. Dill; but do you like poetry?"

Noble's expression took on a coldness; for the word brought to his mind a thought of Newland Saunders. This was a poet of Noble's age, who wrote verses to Julia—that too lovely, absent aunt of Florence's. "Do I like poetry?" said Noble. "No, I don't."

Florence was momentarily discouraged but at her age people usually possess an invaluable faculty which they lose later in life; and it is a pity they do lose it. At thirteen—especially the earlier months of thirteen—they are still able to set aside and dismiss from their minds almost any facts, no matter how audibly those facts have asked for recognition. Children superbly allow themselves to become deaf, so to speak, to undesirable circumstances; most frequently, of course, to undesirable circumstances in the way of parental direction; so that fathers, mothers, nurses, or governesses, not comprehending that this mental deafness is for the time being entirely genuine, are liable to hoarseness both of throat and temper. Thirteen is an age when the fading of this gift or talent—one of the most beautiful of childhood—begins to impair its helpfulness, under the mistaken stress of discipline; but Florence retained something of it. In a moment or two Noble Dill's disaffection toward poetry was altogether as if it did not exist.

She coughed, inclined her head a little to one side, in her mother's manner of politeness to callers, and, repeating her deprecatory laugh, remarked, "Well, of course it's kind of a funny question for me to ask, of course."

"What is, Florence?" Noble inquired absently.

"Well—what I was saying was that 'course it's sort of queer me askin' if you liked poetry, of course, on account of my writing poetry the way I do now."

She looked up at him with a bright readiness to respond modestly to whatever exclamation his wonder should dictate; but Noble's attention had straggled again. He failed to comprehend what she had set before him.

"Has she written your mother lately?" he asked.

Florence's expression denoted a mental condition slightly disturbed. "No," she said. "It's 'goin' to be printed in the North End Daily Oriole."

"What?"

"My poem. It's about a vast amen—anyhow that's prob'ly the best thing in it. I guess—and they're goin' to have it tomorrow, or else they'll have to settle with me: that's one thing certain! I'll bring one over to your house and leave it at the door for you, Mr. Dill."

Noble had but a confused notion of what she thus generally promised. However, he said; "Thank you," and nodded vaguely.

"Of course, I don't know as it's so awful good," Florence admitted insincerely. "The family all seem to think it's something pretty much; but I don't know if it is or not. Really, I don't!"

"No," said Noble still confused. "I suppose not."

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Columbus, O.—Columbus and Milwaukee split even in their double bill here on Sunday, the home crowd winning the first game by a score of 5 to 2, thanks to effective mound work by Danforth, and the visitors bagging the second contest, 10 to 0, with Nemo Gearin in the title role.

Louisville—Louisville made it 13 out of 24 from St. Paul this season by capturing a double header on Sunday, 7 to 3 and 3 to 2, the second game going ten innings. With St. Paul leading 2 to 1 in the ninth inning of the second game and two batters out, Meyer, a pinch hitter singled and Acosta tripled, tying the score. In the tenth singles by Massey, Ellis and Ballenger put over the winning run. A fine drizzle fell throughout the afternoon.

Indianapolis—Minneapolis was practically eliminated from the American association pennant race here on Sunday when the Indians defeated the Millers in both games of a double header, 7 to 2 and 9 to 1. The game with Milwaukee scheduled for Monday will be played as a part of a double header on Wednesday.

Toledo—Toledo and Kansas City divided a doubleheader, the locals winning the first, 5 to 4, and the visitors the second, 4 to 3, the game being called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness. Bono pitched his twenty-fifth victory of the season.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York—New York regained its full game lead in the American league race on Sunday by defeating Cleveland by the overwhelming score of 21 to 7. New York's score is the season's high record.

Washington, D. C.—Washington drew up to within striking distance of third place by taking the last of the series from Detroit on Sunday, 3 to 2. Zachary was effective except in the third inning, while the locals bunched hits off Cole in three different rounds. It was Washington's seventh straight victory.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Chicago—Red Thomas, Chicago's recruit outfielder from Henryetta, Okla., was the hero in the double victory over Boston on Sunday, each game going twelve innings, and the scores being 4 to 3, and 8 to 7 Thomas' single in the last inning of the initial contest sent two runs home for a victory and he started the rally in the last inning of the second contest with a double, and scored on a single by Kelleher, who batted for Freeman.

St. Louis—Douglas' fine pitching in the pinches enabled New York to defeat the Cardinals 5 to 2 here Sunday afternoon. Meusel's hitting was the feature. The Giant gardener driving in four of the five runs.

Cincinnati—Miljus was batted hard in the first and third innings on Sunday and Cincinnati won from Brooklyn by a score of 6 to 2. A doubleheader was to have been played but one game was cancelled on account of wet grounds.

The Cleveland Indians drew first blood in the opening game of the Little World Series at New York, but the Yankees won. Photo shows Larry Gardner, veteran third baseman of the tribe, crossing the plate with the first run.

NEKOOSA NINE WINS TWO MORE VICTORIES

The Nekoosa locals added two more to the season's list of victories yesterday, by downing the City Point team in the morning and then travelling to Babcock and duplicating the process there.

The score of the morning game was 15 to 7.

The game with Babcock was a pitcher's battle between Lufer and Leroux, both of whom pitched practically air tight ball most of the time, and received errorless support.

Nekoosa's first score came in the fourth inning when Blackburn got a base on balls and come home on a three bagger by Jahns.

In the seventh Blackburn opened up with a single, stole second and was advanced to second on a sacrifice by Henry. Friberg then singled bringing in Blackburn again for the second and last tally. Although Babcock registered 8 safe hits to Nekoosa's 6, they were well scattered and resulted in no scores, the final result being 2 to 0.

PISTOL SHOOT HELD BY BATTERY SUNDAY

Battery E held a very successful pistol shoot on the range near Four Mile creek yesterday. Seventy five per cent of the battery were on hand, and considering the fact that almost all of the men were inexperienced in the use of the 45 automatic, the results attained were exceptionally good.

Six men qualified to shoot in record practice on the fifty yard range. These are C. Odegarde, J. Choppie, G. Moraynski, E. Smith, W. Kracke, and L. Gazely.

A good old-time feed was held after the shoot.

J. H. Miller donated the use of his hotel bus to transport the battery to the pistol range Sunday afternoon.

Battery E will have its semi-annual muster at the Armory Saturday, at which every member will be expected to be present. There will be a federal officer on hand to inspect the battery. Also Captain Anichuetz of Stevens Point will be present to make arrangements for the part the local battery is to play in the dedication of the new armory and stock pavilion at Stevens Point October 28.

Club Meeting—

The Tuesday club will hold a study meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. J. Mott, Lyons Park.

CITY LOCALS DOWNED BY SENECA INDIANS

The City Locals went down to a 6 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Seneca Corners Indians yesterday.

Williams, on the mound for the Senecas allowed but three scattered hits and struck out seven opposing batters. He was aided by splendid outfield support, which helped much to keep the score low.

Myers, who pitched for the Locals, was touched for six hits, and struck out five men.

BELOIT DOWNS PURPLE IN FIRST BATTLE 7-0

Beloit sprung a big surprise by defeating Northwestern, 7 to 0, at Evanston Saturday in the first game of the season for both teams. A fumble by Putnam of the Purple gave Beloit the ball on the one yard line in the first quarter, and Addie carried it over in one play for the winning score.

Northwestern had several chances to tie the score, three times getting inside of the five yard line, but fumbling of the wet ball, penalties, and a stubborn Beloit defense kept McDevitt's men from a touchdown.

The teams drew miserable weather conditions for the opening of the local season. A drizzling rain fell during the game making the field and ball slippery, but a crowd of 3,000 came out in raincoats.

Score by periods:

HIGH SCHOOL DOWNS ALUMNI BY 7-0 SCORE

High School 7, Alumni 0, was the final score of Saturday's bitterly contested but somewhat ragged gridiron fray. The game contained few thrills for the spectators, but gave Coach Ritchay's Wafriors an excellent opportunity to try their strength.

The high school line showed a world of strength and held firm throughout against the heavy alumni attack, gains by the latter being almost entirely via the aerial route. The high school back field appeared somewhat nervous and inexperienced, but showed a formidable attack which will be more effective after a week or so more of practice has smoothed out the rough spots.

The lone touch down came on a fumble by the alumni on their own twenty yard line. Noble picked up the ball and galloped over for the tally. Russell LeRoux kicked goal, completing the scoring for the afternoon.

scenery equal, if not surpass, anything in the state. In my visit to the mills I noted the extreme cleanliness throughout them all."

Hospitality Appeals

F. A. Beisel, Supt. Menasha Paper and Carton Co.: "This is my first visit to your city, and one I shall never forget. When I say your city, I mean to include Port Edwards and Nekoosa, all with their wonderfully clean and up to date equipments. Your city is certainly unusually beautiful with its fine business blocks and imposing residences, its beautiful river and drives. We were never more hospitably treated anywhere we have been. I shall surely come again whenever an oportunity presents itself."

Didn't Recognize Mill

Joseph H. Slater, Escanaba, Mich., General Supt. of Escanaba Paper Co: "I visited your city twenty-two years ago as a paper man from the east when the Consolidated mill had just started and which was then one of the finest mills of the day. On my return here today, I found it scarcely recognizable, with its gigantic strides in improvements. One thing that stood out in my impression is the beautiful surroundings of this plant. Having visited practically all of the big mills in the United States and Canada, I want to say that the wonderful big machine just installed reflects great credit on the company and shows the middle west up to anything in the east. I have been superintendent of paper mills of Canada and four of the largest mills of the United States, and am in a position to state that my visit to the Consolidated has been an education. I am delighted with your city and its hospitable people. I know I voice the sentiments of all who are attending the convention in saying that this is the pleasantiest and most instructive convention we have ever had.

Compliments Consolidated

J. H. Slater, superintendent of the Escanaba Paper Mills, urged the need of paper mills being units, not divided forces of employers and employees opposing each other. He also emphasized the need for reforestation, and traced the great advance made in paper making machinery in recent years, complimenting the Consolidated upon its progressive attitude in this respect.

The future of the association was the subject of the last address of the evening, given by F. A. Beisel, newly elected secretary of the association. He outlined past accomplishments, and discussed the possibilities of future activity.

The convention closed with a vote of thanks to the Consolidated company for its courtesy and hospitality to the visiting delegates, and to Mr. Beisel, for his efforts in assuring the success of the gathering. Officers of the convention expressed their appreciation of the kindness and efficiency of the Hotel Witter management and employees.

Keeping in Step With The Times

IN 1910 the consumption of gasoline in the United States approximated seven hundred and fifty million gallons. In 1920 the consumption of gasoline was well over four billion gallons.

This tremendous increase in demand came with a spectacular suddenness which strained the resources of the petroleum industry.

To meet it the Burton process was developed in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

While no claim is made that the Burton process is wholly responsible for the increased efficiency of refining practices, the fact remains that without it the tremendous increase of gasoline from crude oil would have been impossible.

In 1910 the average recovery of gasoline from the crudes of the United States was approximately 11 percent; in 1920 this average had been increased to upwards of 30 percent.

While this Company was producing gasoline in sufficient quantities to meet the ever-increasing demand upon its facilities, it also was confronted with the necessity of finding a market for the vast number of products made from that part of the petroleum which could not be converted into gasoline.

New uses for these by-products had to be found or created if gasoline were to be relieved of more than its just share of the cost of refining, thereby keeping the price of this fuel within the reach of all.

It required all the knowledge, experience, skill, resourcefulness, ingenuity and technical ability which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) could bring into play.

The Company has a just pride in its success in finding added fields of usefulness for old by-products, as well as for having developed new by-products of use and value.

Thus does the faithfulness of a big institution, fortified by science, ability and a will to be truly useful, function to the advantage of all.

The Tailored Suit for Autumn

Hitting the nail on the head won't be hard this Fall, for nailhead embroidery is the aim of many a winsome Suit.

A truly Parisienne shrug can only be accomplished in a Suit with a cape arrangement of sleeves or back, or a yoke effect quaintly chic.

Hems establish their own precedents, for swinging panels or fringed sashes longer than skirts themselves make for a delightful irregularity.

Suits fly colors of Italian Reds and Blues, copper browns, picturesquely termed gypsy and mohawk, and greens and browns forest-hued.

The A. B. C's of Suit Styles for Fall include: Appropriateness, Beauty and Conservative Cost —for styles are versatile—they will cleverly meet any occasion requirement; they are beautiful in fabric, color and trimming; and price tags respectfully concede to the Dollar its birthright.

The Suit That's Fur Trimmed

For any other than a strictly businesslike affair, a fur-trimmed Suit, complemented by a chic blouse, will prove adaptable for almost any day occasion. Thoruoghly competent are suits of velvety pile fabrics, in new rich colorings. Grey furs, such a Caracul and Squirrel and embroideries, especially those that recognize nailheads are favored as trimmings. Black duvetyn, luxurious in rick black fur, will also find its followers.

Those of Conservative Lines

The Suit of conservative lines broadens its outlook for Fall by adapting to its use some of the new pile fabrics, though navy blue twill and some trig, mannish tweeds, in new colorings, still reign supreme. Women will gladly greet collars that are convertible and coats that may be worn with or without belts. Some, a bit less conservative, show embroidered motifs or braiding.

C. OF C. IS BACK OF BAND PROJECT

WILL MEET OCTOBER 3 FOR ORGANIZATION: PETITION SOO LINE FOR REESTABLISHMENT OF PASSENGER SERVICE

The regular meeting of the Nekoosa Chamber of Commerce was held last night in the Congregational Church parlors. Professor J. E. Kohr gave a talk on the lecture course which will be held here this winter. He also spoke of the commercial course which is being given at Alexander High School, suggesting that if the business men have any stenographic work to be done it would be a good idea to give it to the students.

Write Soo Officials

Secretary E. C. Kellogg was instructed to write to officials of the Soo Line concerning the reestablishment of the passenger service to Nekoosa.

The proposed organization of a Nekoosa band also came in for quite a bit of discussion and round-table talk. It was finally decided to invite fourteen men whose names have been turned in as prospective members of the band to take supper with the Chamber of Commerce at the next meeting which is scheduled for the evening of October 3. Organization of the band will take place at this meeting.

G. A. R. GUARDS MEMORIAL DAY

COMMANDER EXHORTS PROPER OBSERVANCE OF DAY—CONDEMNS KU KLUX KLAN WITH BOLSHEVISM AND ANARCHY

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27.—Protection of Memorial Day from commercialism and consecration of the day to the memory of the soldiers of all the nation's wars should be an aim of the Grand Army of the Republic and its allied organiations, Comander-in-Chief William A. Ketcham declared in his address today at the first business session of the fifty-fifth national encampment. Failure to protect the day from desecration will be a reproach to the Grand Army, its leader said.

Honor Memorial Day

"The 30th of May is our Holy Day," said the commander-in-chief. "We instituted it and for fifty-three years we have, in rain or shine, stood at the shrines of men who died that the nation might live and paid tribute to their ancestors. No day in the year should be more absolutely free from commercialism of any sentiment except that of reverence and devotion to memory of the dead. We still note with pain that in too many localities sports of one kind or another are taking away the attention of the rising generation from the observance of this day. In many states by legislation it is protected from desecration, and in all it should be. If, with the assistance of our able and devoted auxiliary and allies, we are not able to inculcate a deeper reverence for the memory of the dead, it will be a reproach to us."

Must Fight Ku Klux

Revival of the Ku Klux Klan was condemned by Comander Ketcham along with other organiations. While the Grand Army has scant influence in the state in which the Klan was incorporated the comamnder declared the G. A. R. "should see to it that any organiation with so offensive and discredited a name should not be permitted to invade state lines where we still have influence and strength."

"We ought to set our faces like flint," said commander Ketcham, "against all the evils of the modern day that are threatening—Bolshevism, I. W. W. ism, anarchy, Ku Klux Klan—whatever their name may be—

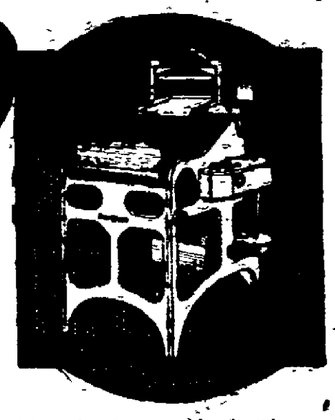
Sunnysuds Electric Washer & Wringer

$100



SEE THIS Remarkable Electric Washer!

No one can afford to be without an electric washer—with the Sunnysuds selling for $100 on the easiest of terms. It is a standard, family-size machine throughout—heavy steel cabinet, 6-sheet corrugated copper tub, aluminum 4-position reversible wringer. Come in and see this remarkable washer selling at a remarkable price!

Family Washing Bills Reduced 10 Per Cent

WE have just installed a modern washer which, due to its efficient methods of operation, practically doubles our capacity for individual family washes and enables us to do these washings at a reduction in cost. This saving we are passing along to you with the announcement that beginning Oct. 2, family washings will be done at the rate of

10 Lbs. $1.00
Each Additional Pound 8c

Individual Washer

This new modern washer washes your laundry individually, apart from the laundry of any one else. When the washing comes to us, it is placed in the big washer, in a separate compartment where it is washed in clean, soft, "sudsy" hot water, and then rinsed 7 times in clear soft water, until every vestige of soap and dirt is removed. During the process it does not come in contact with any other laundry, thus insuring the same cleanliness and sanitary condition as if it were washed in your own home. We use no chemicals of any kind that would injure the most delicate fabric.

Prompt Service

Family washings are sent back to you with all flat pieces ironed, and with the wearing apparel, starched (if starched pieces are included), but not ironed.
We offer you an exceptional laundry service—individual—sanitary—prompt, at a very reasonable price.
Laundry work, at best, with all of the modern home appliances, is a tedious task. With the service which we render, at the prices which we ask, you cannot afford to spend your time over the wash board.
Call 387—That's all the trouble it is for you to have your weekly washing done.

Furs Are Lower

Two important things characterize the new fur coats. One is their price—at least a third lower than last year. The other is the silhouette. The big, ample, kimona cut has given way to the waist-line sleeve, as shown in the Franklin Simon model of squirrel and Scotch mole.

THEATRES

DALY'S THEATER

Two hours or more of wholesome comedy, infectious music, pretty girls, smart ensembles, stunning costumes and catchy song hits are promised at Daly's theater, Wednesday, September 28, where the ever popular musical comedy, "Bringing Up Father in Wall Street" and is said to be a riot of melody and laughter. This splendid offering comes direct from the Manhattan Opera House, New York, and the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, the Homes of Grand Opera, where it kept the patrons of these two huge playhouses holding their sides from laughter for many weeks. "There is not only wit and humor, but a great deal of human nature in 'Bringing Up Father'", said David Belasco, the well-known theatrical manager. One of the features of the performance is a snappy chorus of comely young misses who are well versed in the art of singing and dancing.

PALACE THEATER

A combination of faultless direction and excellent acting by the members of what the most captious critic will acknowledge as an "all star" cast, in the full sense of that much abused phrase, entitles "Midsummer Madness" to rank as one of the season's best productions. It is undoubtedly William DeMille's finest screen contribution. The plot carries a strong emotional appeal. The sex problem is involved, but so skillfully treated that not a single situation verges on the offensive. The initial showing at the Criterion theater, New York, brought forth a veritable storm of enthusiastic applause, and the picture's future as a country wide success seems assured.

There are numerous handsome interiors, with luxurious settings, beautiful exteriors, impressive deep set, exquisite night views, with charming combinations of light and shadows and fine lighting distinguishes the entire production.

A masterpiece of artistic technic and conscientious workmanship.

To be shown at the Palace theater, Wednesday and Thursday.

"ITS REMARKABLE" SAYS MRS. LARSON

Mrs. John Larsen, 5 Hearshal St., Chippewa Falls, in an interview Tuesday, said:

"For a long time I had been in ill health. First I had trouble with my nerves, then my stomach and finally rheumatism. Headaches and indigestion always bothered me while my appetite was poor. After eating I would suffer nausea, gastritis and sour stomach. I would get such bad nerves spells I could hardly stand up. Kozak was recommended to me. Soon I noticed that I had a better appetite, my food digested right and my nerves was becoming stronger. Today, thanks to Kozak, I feel fine, all my troubles are gone and I give all the credit to this remarkable new medicine."

American Association

Columbus—Minneapolis won the first game of the final series from Columbus on Monday 9 to 2. Mangum allowed only five scattered hits. Martin was wild and was replaced in the fifth by Odenwald. President T. J. Hickey of the American association was a spectator.

American League

Philadelphia—Moore and Harris blanked Chicago, 3 to 0, on Monday, and gave the locals the final series with the White Sox, four games to one.

New York—New York took a firm grip on first place in the exciting American league pennant race and went a long way toward clinching the championship by defeating Cleveland in a tense, thrilling struggle here on Saturday, by a score of 8 to 7. The victory gave New York three out of four victories from the present world's champions and gave New York a lead of two full games, with Cleveland having only four more games to play and New York five.

George (Babe) Ruth, the famous Yankee slugger, was the hero of the New York victory, as he had one of his greatest batting days since coming into American league. Ruth hit two home runs, a two bagger and walked in four times up. He either scored or drove in five of the eight New York runs.

National League

Pittsburg—Philadelphia achieved its first Pittsburg victory of the season by taking Monday's game, 2 to 1. Hubbell was unsteady, passing five men, but tightened up with men on the bases.

St. Louis—Nehf was master of the Cardinals here on Monday and kept their hits scattered, while fast fielding enabled the Giants to win, 4 to 1.

WAUSAU DEFEATED BY APPLETON HIGH, 21-7

Appleton High defeated Wausau Saturday in the only important high school grid contest in this section of the state. Both teams showed plenty of strength and speed, but Appleton had fresh men in reserve for the last period of the play, and the victory may be directly attributed to that.

Wausau was the first to score, the tally coming early in the first quarter. Appleton came back in the same period and tied up the score. From then on until late in the final period the game was anybody's, with all the indications being that it would be a 7 to 7 tie.

Wausau lacked substitutes, however, and as the men tired they crumbled before the onslaught of the Appleton second string men, who were rushed into the game in the last few minutes of play. The final score, Appleton 21, Wausau 7, hardly shows the actual strength of the two teams.

Also playing Saturday afternoon, Stevens Point had no difficulty in overwhelming Manawa High School, 49 to 0. The Manawa team was clearly inexperienced and untrained, and after the first quarter the Point eleven scored almost at will.

A process has been patented in Great Britain for blending chalk with carbonaceous material to form a substitute for coal for household use.

New York Series For World Title Sweet For Magnates

With the New York Yanks now enjoying a comfortable margin, and with the National League gonfalon practically sewed up by the Giants, it begins to look very much as if the big series would be a home town affair for the Gothamites.

All of which is doubtless very pleasing to the New York followers of the pastime to say nothing of the gentlemen who guard the purse strings of the two clubs. The New York teams this year have consistently played to better crowds than any other teams in their respective leagues, and their drawing powers have been especially strong on the home lot. If they rangle in the big series the proceeds may well run close to a million dollars.

Long Series Suits Owners

Of course a great deal depends on the length of the series. If luck runs with owners and the argument lasts seven or eight rounds, the receipts are likely to be something for ball club owners to dream about for some time to come. Surely conditions were never so ideal for a record gate, and if the fellows who run ball games only had as much nerve as prize fight promoters the results would probably make even Tex Rickard sit up and take notice.

Just for comparison, here is the dope on last years' series, when a couple of small town teams like Brooklyn and Cleveland pulled close to $600,000 for seven days of exercise. Official gross receipts of $564,800 were distributed as follows:

Contesting players share	$161,162.06
Purse for Cleveland (27 men)	96,697.24
Purse for Brooklyn (29 men)	64,464.82
Each Cleveland player	4,168.00
Each Brooklyn player	2,419.00
Purse for second place teams (about 52 men)	27,431.00
Purse for third place teams (about 55 men)	21,488.28
Each second place player (about)	685.80
Each third place player (about)	400.00
Cleveland club's share	73,359.32
Brooklyn club's share	73,359.31
American League treasury	73,359.32
National League treasury	73,359.31
National commision's share	56,480.00

FOX RIVER BUNTING COPPED BY MENASHA

Menasha defeated Fond du Lac Sunday afternoon, thereby winning the championship in the Fox River Valley League. The League season is not finished yet, but Menasha can lose the rest of its games and still retain the title.

At a meeting of the directors of the league held last week it was decided to disband the league as it is now organized. Poor financial condition, the bugbear of all semi-pro leagues, is alleged to be the reason behind the action. There will undoubtedly be another league organized next spring however, as there are a number of cities in the valley in which Sunday baseball has been and will continue to be a paying proposition.

It is proposed that next year's league include Appleton, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Green Bay and either Kaukauna or Marinette. Such an organization would be fairly compact, and would comprise the best baseball teams in that section of the state.

FOOTBALL TEAM WILL REPRESENT NEKOOSA

Nekoosa is to be represented on the gridiron this year by a recently organized team to be known as the Nekoosa Professionals.

The boys have all had plenty of experience, many of them having played on university, army or navy elevens. The team would like to arrange games at once, preferably with Wisconsin Rapids, Wausau, Merrill, Stevens Point, Marshfield and Eau Claire. Write F. W. Burt, Nekoosa, Wis.

sial problems. Many requests also come by mail for information or advice on matters relating to social

The conference initiates and supports certain selected measures of social legislation. All measures supported by the Conference have been passed by the Legislature this year, including one measure which establishes in the State Board of Control a Juvenile Division for dependent, neglected, delinquent, and feeble-minded children.

1400 interested people in 350 different towns were notified regarding various social measures before the legislature.

One of the projects of the Conference is the selection in every town in the state of some person with social vision who will help advance social movements, local and state wide. These Local Representatives and other members of the Conference act together in promoting important measures of social legislation. Already such representatives have been secured in over 300 towns.

The Conference is holding Rural District Conferences of Social Work. It held one at Platteville for Grant, Iowa, and Lafayette counties, which was attended by 458 people from 39 towns. As a result these towns have inaugurated work for the welfare of their men, women, and children.

During the past year the Conference membership has increased from 130 individuals to 900 individuals besides nearly 200 organizations. In Madison alone 42 clubs, lodges, and church societies have affiliated.

The progress which has already been made in carrying on these various activities promises fair for future achievements. But the Conference is in immediate need of more members if this vitally important work is to continue.

DEMAND DISSOLUTION OF NEW ORGANIZATION

Madison, Wis., Sept. 24—Dissolution of the Wisconsin Co-operative society, a new organization growing out of the Co-operative Society of America, is asked today by Attorney General William J. Morgan in an action brought under the new cooperative law, before Judge E. Ray Stevens, in the Dane county circuit court.

The corporation has announced its plan to issue $5,000,000 par value of unsecured promissory notes, due in 20 years, the attorney general says. The authorized capital of the concern which intends to open so-called cooperative grocery stores in Wisconsin, is $10,000. Its headquarters are at Racine, with agents distributed throughout the state.

Under an order signed by Judge Stevens, the Co-operative society is required to show before Monday why it should not be enjoined, during the pendency of the action, from selling its securities in Wisconsin.

The scheme of the society, as explained by the attorney general, is to sell notes for $75 each, the notes to be called "profit-sharing debentures," on which the company agrees to pay, not interest, but "profit-sharing dividends."
